“A wonderful respite... a great way to get to know the staff”

Most communities offer a unique program, called Short-Stay Respite. Your loved one may want to take advantage of this option for several reasons:

He or she is thinking about moving into a senior living community, but wants to fully experience the senior housing lifestyle before make a final decision.

He or she is being discharged from a hospital or nursing home , but still need some extra help to ease the transition home.

A family member or elder caregiver is going away on vacation, and your loved one needs a temporary place to live while they get a well-deserved break.

If so, we welcome your loved one to stay in our community for just a day, week– or for however long they require. Will he or she be treated differently than our other residents? Absolutely not! Your loved one will receive the same services all residents enjoy home-cooked meals, scheduled transportation, a customized plan of care and more.

And of course, he or she will have the opportunity to enjoy our rich activities program. In fact, most of our short-stay resident will quickly feel right at home – so much at home and part of the community that many never want to leave!
